ADB's Supporting Human Capital Development Project, Meghalaya, INDIA MONTHLY NEWS LETTER 2014 OCTOBER ISSUE

CommunicationsDesk

“Supporting Human Capital

Development in Meghalaya”, a project of the Asian Development Bank, ADB, in assisting the state government of Meghalaya is (by design) a multi-agency project that needs a lot of inter-agency conversation. One of the key purposes of ‘Orchid’ is to draw various stakeholders as well as individual and group consultants closer to the project.

Because of the need to be on the same page, this newsletter will help members of the group consultants work in tandem to ensure that the Government of Meghalaya gets the support they need ‘Orchid’, therefore, will feature monthly news update, stories, development buzz etc that are relevant to the planning of activities and implementation of the project. The list starts from education news, HR development, field deployment updates, key meetings to political & economic angles, social events, weather, transport updates etcetera.

Should corporate consultants feel the need to inform for the benefit of running the project, they may do so by liaising with the PMC Communication Specialist, attached with Accenture.

Joint effort needed for 100% literacy rate: Laloo

Shillong: In order to achieve 100 per cent literacy in the state, all stakeholders must work in tandem to achieve the desired goal, observed deputy CM in-charge education, RC Laloo while speaking at the World Literacy Day celebration today at St. Paul Higher Secondary School, Marbisu, Shillong.

With this year's theme being 'Making Education a Reality', the function was organised by the office of the State Education Mission Authority of Meghalaya (SEMAM). Addressing the gathering, Laloo reminded that the main objective of the programme is to mobilise school children to attend regular classes and also make parents and the community conscious of the importance of education.

Unless school dropout children are brought back to school, we will not be able to give a literacy mandate"

- RC Laloo, Deputy CM

"Unless students who have left schools are again brought back, we will never be able to give a literacy mandate," Laloo stressed adding, "In 2011, the literacy rate in Meghalaya was 74.43 per cent and it will not be impossible to achieve 100 per cent literacy rate by 2014."
